Doctor saddles up for vulnerable and neglected young

A MUSWELL Hill doctor has raised more than £800 for a children's charity after taking part in a bike ride along the Suffolk coastline.

John Hayward, 67, of Cranmore Way, Muswell Hill, raised the money after cycling four hours to complete a circuit of 60 miles in the Suffolk Coast Bike Ride last month.

The former GP, who works part-time for Freedom From Torture, a medical foundation which cares for torture victims, is a keen cyclist and signed up for the event with a friend who lives in the coastal town of Orford in Suffolk.

He joined more than 1,100 riders who took part and raised thousands of pounds for Action for Children, a charity dedicated to protecting vulnerable and neglected youngsters.

Speaking to the Advertiser this week, Mr Hayward said he had received many positive responses after emailing his entire contact list before the event.

"This is the great thing about sending out appeals electronically," he said after revealing that friends from as far as America, Canada and Denmark had all donated to the cause. "Electronic donations are the way to do it, one email and some really great copy."

Using the online fundraising website Just Giving to collect donations, Mr Hayward raised a total of £840.

He added: "It was a nice opportunity to take part in the event and it turned out to be a beautiful day. We were riding up narrow lanes, but it was well sign-posted with a great atmosphere."

Action for Children works with more than 300,000 children, young people, parents and carers each year and holds regular fundraising events.

Commenting on Mr Hayward's achievement, Lyndsay Wood, Action for Children's Essex and Suffolk fundraiser, said: "On behalf of everyone at Action for Children, I would like to say a huge thank you to John and to all the riders."

Your opportunity to quiz health chiefs on services

THE borough's health commissioners are inviting residents to two public meetings that will be held in Wood Green next week to discuss services.

Two meetings, one at 2pm and another at 6pm, will take place next Thursday, September 25, at the Cypriot Centre in Earlam Grove.

Dr Sherry Tang, GP and chairwoman of Haringey CCG, said: "We would love to see as many Haringey residents as possible at our public meetings because we want to give people an opportunity to hear about our work, ask questions and help us to improve local health services."

More information about the events is available at www.haringeyccg.nhs.uk or, alternatively, residents can contact the CCG on 020 3688 2729.

Meanwhile, the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental Health Trust is inviting residents to its annual meeting at the conference suite in the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield, on Monday. Refreshments will be available from 1pm and the meeting will start at 2pm.

It is an opportunity to find out more about community and mental health services, the trust's performance and plans for the future.

Managers will present the 2013/14 annual report and the quality account, which describes the trust's work to improve service quality and patient satisfaction.

Further information is available from trust secretary Barry Ray, who can be contacted on 020 8702 4060.

AMERICANS LOOK AT BUYING SPURS

Takeover mooted as new stadium hits delays

By Daniel O'Brien

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

AN American investment company has confirmed it is considering a takeover bid for Tottenham Hotspur amid concerns over delays to the building of the club's new stadium.

On Friday, Cain Hoy, which only formally announced the launch of its operations on Thursday, confirmed it was in the early stages in considering making an offer for Spurs.

Last week the club issued a statement denying it is in takeover talks, but confirmed it had met representatives of Cain Hoy and other groups regarding the financing of the club's new stadium project.

Tottenham have confirmed that plans for progress on the 56,250-capacity stadium, next to the existing White Hart Lane ground, had been delayed after a compulsory purchase order for the land was challenged in the High Court.

A statement issued last week said: "Given the lengthy period of time taken to reach the CPO decision in the first place, we should like to advise supporters that it is highly unlikely we shall be able to open the new stadium at the start of the 2017/2018 season."

It added: "The club has revised its construction programme in order to take the shortest possible time to construct. This now therefore involves the club moving away from the Lane during construction for a period of one season, to start at the beginning of a season in order to comply with Premier League rules."

"We are currently undertaking due diligence on alternative stadium options."

Among sites reportedly being considered for the 2017/18 season is the Olympic Stadium, in east London, due to become West Ham United's home from 2016.

Tottenham lost out to West Ham in a bid to move to the stadium in 2011, but have reportedly been given the green light to approach stadium bosses, the London Legacy Development Corporation, about a temporary groundshare.

Delay: An image of the new stadium

A statement from the Tottenham Hotspur Supporters' Trust said fans were "pragmatic" about the need to move for one season. However, it added: "Our greatest concern is that, once the club moves for one season, it is but a short step towards moving for two seasons, or more."

Warning sounded on 'sell-off of healthcare'

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A COUNCILLOR has expressed fears that the planned recommissioning of a range of health services could see new contracts awarded to private health firms, undermining the NHS.

Alev Cazimoglu, Labour member of Enfield Council's health and wellbeing scrutiny panel, said that Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group's proposed tendering of community health services could lead to a fragmented healthcare landscape from which private firms could "cherry-pick" the most profitable services.

The warning came just days before the CCG holds a "market testing information event" for NHS bodies and private firms interested in running musculoskeletal services in Enfield, which includes orthopaedics, rheumatology, pain management and physiotherapy services.

The Advertiser understands that a previous meeting about the £85million five-year contract was attended by private health firm Circle, a private physiotherapy firm, the North Middlesex University Hospital and the Royal Free, which since July runs Barnet Hospital and Chase Farm.

The Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental Health Trust currently provides MSK services for patients referred by Enfield GPs.

Ms Cazimoglu said: "I am concerned they are breaking services up into little packages, allowing the private sector to cherry-pick the ones that are profitable with strong bids.

"If the provider for this contract is a private firm, this will make the mental health trust less viable. This is part of the ongoing NHS sell-off, which is leading to a chaotic situation within the health service."

Under the controversial 2012 Health and Social Care Act, health commissioners are required to put virtually all services out through competitive markets, which critics say is rapidly increasing the involvement of private firms in the NHS.

But the CCG, which aims to sign a contract with a "lead provider" in order to avoid past duplication of services and confusing access for patients, said it was "really proud" of the work it was doing in regards to MSK services.

It also said the recommissioning of community health services were "completely separate" to this tendering process.

Liz Wise, the CCG's chief officer, added: "An immense amount of work is going in to finding out what our patients really need and value."

She said "new and innovative services" would be developed.

Optician offers £1,000 to help catch thieves who targeted shop

AN OPTICIAN in Enfield Town has offered a reward of £1,000 and a free pair of sunglasses for information that leads to the arrest of those who burgled his business this week.

Garry Kousoulou, who owns Good Looking Optics, in Genotin Road, Enfield Town, said he felt "violated" after £3,000 worth of sunglasses were stolen from his shop between 7pm on Monday and 9am yesterday morning.

The father-of-four, who stood as an independent candidate in the council elections in May in the Southbury ward, said it was the first time in ten years his business had been targeted by thieves.

Commenting on the reward, Mr Kousoulou said: "As a small business we work very hard to turn a small profit and I want these people to get caught. I want to send out a message that this will not be tolerated.

"I believe it could be a gang because other opticians in the borough have also been targeted for sunglasses," said Mr Kousoulou, who received a visit from Enfield North MP Nick de Bois following the incident.

He explained: "I believe whoever did this came in during the day and checked the place out, the security we have, and then targeted us.

"There was not much damage to the shop, they knew what they wanted, and according to the police they were wearing gloves."

Police are investigating the incident. Anyone with information is asked to contact police on 101, quoting reference 4918084/14. Alternatively, to remain anonymous, call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

A new era for news service for blind as it enters the digital age

MP3 format equals better recordings

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD's news service for blind and partially sighted people, which is celebrating its 53rd birthday this year, is going digital.

Enfield Talking News, which has been keeping the borough's blind population up to date with local events since 1961, is preparing to switch from cassette to MP3 format.

It is more than 50 years since it started going door-to-door to play residents reel-to-reel audio recordings of newspaper articles read out loud.

Since 1976, residents on Enfield Council's blind and partially sighted register who have requested the service have been sent a tape cassette with a news recording every week free of charge, but ETN is planning to switch to USB sticks containing MP3 recordings before Christmas.

"We have thought long and hard about this and we know it's going to be difficult for some listeners, many of whom are elderly," said Diane de Jersey, ETN's vice-chairwoman and listeners' representative, who has been blind since birth.

"But the tape deck equipment and recording technology are not that easy to get any more.

"A lot of people really value the service because it keeps them in touch with what's happening, especially people who have lost sight later in life who miss reading."

Every week the production team makes a 60-minute audio recording of articles from Enfield's newspapers at the Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Enfield.

The recording is then copied at Community House, in Fore Street, Edmonton, and sent to 150 listeners by post. Once they have listened to the tape, they send it back to Community House, where it is wiped, ready for a new recording.

To listen to recordings in the new format, listeners on means-tested benefits who do not already have a digital USB player will receive one for free, while others will be charged £10.

Chairman of Enfield Talking News Phillip Dawson said: "The quality of the MP3 recording will be much better and it will also allow us to make longer recordings. We can extend the news and notices and it will also allow people to skip items if they don't find them interesting.

"Our listeners very much value the companionship that our service provides and, unlike other talking news services, we have blind people like Diane very much involved."

Mrs de Jersey's husband Keith, a member of ETN's production team, who has also been blind from birth, said: "The magazine shows that blind people can get out and do things and we contribute to getting our listeners' confidence up."

Story of the Enfield poltergeist set to be portrayed in a new TV drama

THE terrifying story of the Enfield poltergeist is to be serialised in a new TV drama.

The Enfield Haunting, filming for which started last week, is a three-part dramatisation of the events that took place at a council house in Green Street, Brimsdown, during the autumn of 1977.

The saga received national press coverage and remains to this day the most documented account of poltergeist activity in Britain.

Timothy Spall, winner of the best actor accolade at this year's Cannes Film Festival for his role in Mike Leigh's Mr Turner, will play Maurice Grosse, a rookie paranormal researcher.

After a personal tragedy, Maurice is drawn to the house in Green Street after reports of a family terrorised by malevolent paranormal forces in their home.

Commenting on his role, Mr Spall said: "I am very pleased. Not only is it based on a supernatural happening, it's a brilliant script that is full of emotional texture and develops beautifully into a human story."

Juliet Stevenson will star alongside Spall, playing his wife Betty, while Matthew Macfadyen will play Guy Lyon Playfair, an experienced investigator, who approaches the case with scepticism.

Adapted from a book by Guy Lyon Playfair, This House is Haunted, The Enfield Haunting draws on extensive documentation, recordings and witness statements.

Filming for the series, written by Joshua St Johnston, is taking place in locations across London, but not in Enfield. It is being directed by Kristoffer Nyholm.

Jamie Campbell, executive producer at Eleven Film, the production company behind the drama, added: "Bringing this terrifying story to a drama audience for the first time, with access to the exhaustive source material, has been truly exciting.

"We have a great dramatic conundrum – what on earth was behind the many strange and otherworldly incidents that took place in Enfield in the late 1970s?"

The series is due to be screened on Sky Living next year.

Lorry collision victim named

A MAN who died following a collision on the North Circular Road has been named as 54-year-old Kazys Kaniauskas.

Mr Kaniauskas, from Barking, east London, died at the scene of an overturned refuse lorry at the junction of the A406 and Hall Lane, Chingford, near IKEA in Edmonton, on Tuesday morning last week.

Police believe Mr Kaniauskas was a passenger in the lorry. He was treated at the scene and pronounced dead at 9.26am.

A post-mortem at Walthamstow Mortuary last Wednesday gave the cause of death as multiple injuries. An inquest was opened and adjourned at Walthamstow Coroner's Court.

No other vehicles were involved. The driver of the lorry, aged 49, was arrested on suspicion of causing death by careless driving. He has been released on police bail until late October.

Officers from the serious collision investigation unit at Chadwell Heath Traffic Garage are investigating. Witnesses can telephone 020 8597 4874.

Fatal accident: The scene of the collision on the North Circular Road last week

Accident man seriously hurt

A MAN is in a critical condition in hospital after a suspected hit and run.

Police were called at 2.20am on Saturday to reports of a man found lying in Meridian Avenue, close to the Picketts Lock Lane flyover.

He is believed to be in his 30s and was taken to a north London hospital with multiple injuries. His condition is described as critical.

Police believe he may have been hit by a vehicle that failed to stop at the scene.

Detective Sergeant Stuart Henson, from the serious collision investigation unit, said: "I am appealing for anyone who saw what happened on Saturday morning to contact us."

"Did you see or hear a collision? Did you witness a vehicle speeding away from the area?"

"It is important we trace the vehicle and driver so we can establish exactly what happened."

Anyone with information can call 020 8597 4874, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Flat fire charge

A MAN has been charged with setting fire to a flat in Edmonton last week.

Timur Demur, 25, of Cameron Close, Edmonton, was remanded in custody when he appeared at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court on Wednesday last week charged with arson with intent to endanger life and with common assault.

The charges relate to a fire in Brettenham Road last Tuesday.

Demur is due to appear next at Wood Green Crown Court next Wednesday (September 24).

Anyone with information is asked to contact police on 101, quoting reference 5219630/14, or, to remain anonymous, Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Two fined over skin cream

TWO men have been fined for selling a skin lightening cream to cosmetic stores in Edmonton.

Sharafat Hussain and Banaras Hussain sold the cream containing hydroquinone, a chemical which studies have shown can cause disfigurements of blue-black pigments in the skin.

The duo were caught after Enfield Council's trading standards officers raided Shaba Hair and Cosmetics stores in South Mall and Fore Street.

Products were sent for testing and results identified the dangerous substance.

Using the chemical above a certain concentration in skin products is banned across European Union countries as well as in the United States.

The two men pleaded guilty to 11 charges between them at Tottenham Magistrates' Court on September 4.

Sharafat Hussain, from Ilford, east London, admitted four offences and was ordered to pay a fine of £3,000, including costs, and a victim surcharge of £120. Banaras Hussain, of Tottenham, north London, must pay £5,600, including £3,500 in costs and a £120 victim surcharge, after admitting seven offences.

Cabinet member for the environment, Chris Bond, said: "We will not tolerate businesses that put profits before the safety of our residents and Enfield Council will take quick and effective action against anyone who endangers the public by selling what are frankly dangerous products."

"These fines send out a very strong message and I sincerely hope it deters others from selling these products."

Dispersal zone aims to stop anti-social gangs

Six-month order in response to complaints from residents

By Ivana Scatola

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A DISPERSAL order has been introduced by Enfield Council and the Metropolitan Police to tackle anti-social behaviour.

It has been brought into operation in Upper Edmonton after police and the council received complaints from residents about harassment and intimidation by groups of youths.

The order came into force on September 7 and will run initially for six months.

It gives police the power to disperse groups they think have intentions to cause trouble. It will allow officers to monitor the behaviour of specific groups and individuals.

Inspector Sharon McHugh, from Enfield Police, said: "Enfield Police and the local authority agreed that there are grounds to believe that members of the public have been intimidated, harassed, alarmed or distressed as a result of the presence or behaviour of two or more persons."

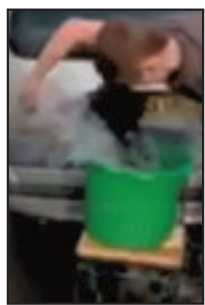

"In particular, it was felt necessary to implement the dispersal zone due to the presence of casual labourers in Advent Way and also youth disorder in Swaythling Close, off Montagu Road."

If the group returns to the area within 24 hours of the order being enforced by police, troublemakers will face arrest as well as possible imprisonment.

Those in the group under the age of 16 will be escorted home if they are not with an adult.

The council's cabinet member for community safety Chris Bond said: "We will not allow groups of people to harass and intimidate our residents and will take immediate measures in partnership with police to curb their unacceptable behaviour. We are determined to keep our communities safe and we will not allow a small minority of people to wreck the lives of the residents by acting abysmally."

Condemned: A still from the video

Boy is held over 'ice bucket pup' video

A TEENAGER from Edmonton has been arrested after uploading footage which appears to show him forcefully thrusting a puppy into a bucket of icy water.

The 16-year-old, who cannot be named for legal reasons, is seen jokingly announcing the stunt before appearing to plunge the dog into the bucket, causing it to yelp and fall out of it in distress.

It is a take on the ice bucket challenge, which has seen celebrities having buckets of icy cold water tipped over the heads before nominating others to take the challenge.

The video has attracted widespread outrage from users of social media.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals started a petition calling on the 16-year-old to face a criminal investigation and branded him responsible for a "heinous act".

It has been signed by more than 37,000 people.

The teenager was arrested on September 3 on suspicion of causing unnecessary suffering to an animal.

The puppy was seized and is now in the care of a dog welfare charity.

A spokesman for the RSPCA said: "Causing unnecessary suffering to an animal is an offence under law and we would strongly urge people not to copy this video."

Dead body is found in river

AN investigation has been launched by police after a body was found in the River Lea.

The human remains were discovered near Wharf Road, Ponders End, at about 10.30am on Friday, September 5.

The death is being treated as unexplained.

COUNCIL bosses believe the borough is on the verge of a new industrial revolution heralded with a cash injection of £500,000 into a business centre.

The money has been used to refurbish the Enfield Business Centre, in Hertford Road, Enfield Wash, and comes from a £1.9million pot won by the borough from the Mayor of London's Outer London Fund in 2012.

It has been poured into refurbishing the centre with a new business hub as well as a tranche of IT upgrades designed to help both local companies and jobseekers.

At the official launch tonight, council leader Doug Taylor will say that the investment will fund a renaissance of industry in what was once the technological powerhouse of the capital.

He will tell a gathering of business leaders: "Enfield's history is steeped

Business set to boom after centre's facelift in technology and innovation and there is no reason why Enfield could not be a hub for industrial pioneers once more, which is why through initiatives such as Enfield Business Centre, Enfield Council is committed to encouraging new businesses to flourish and prosper."

There are also plans to announce a commitment to creating 40,000 new jobs with thousands of pounds to be invested in training and skill development which council leaders believe will lead to regeneration in industry and technology throughout the borough. Mr Taylor will say: "We will regenerate the area by continuing to create great conditions for business, help people find and keep jobs, support our local businesses to employ local residents, raise the skills and qualification levels of our population so businesses can find the experts they need in our borough, attract additional investment to Enfield and increase the number of jobs available."

Deputy Mayor of London Kit Malt-house will stand alongside Mr Taylor as a sign of support for the initiative from the mayor's office.

Speaking before the launch, he said: "Helping the capital's businesses to thrive is a key priority and supporting projects such as this one in Enfield demonstrates the reason the Outer London Fund was created.

"By supporting the local entrepreneurs and workers who use this space, we can create an economic hub for generations to come."

Expansion plan for new homes building

THE construction of the first council homes in the borough in more than 30 years is set to come one step closer to becoming reality this week.

Enfield Council's cabinet is expected to approve phase two of a project that will see at least 100 new homes built on eight small housing sites across the borough.

Initial work has been started across seven sites by construction firm Kier and a report going before the cabinet tonight proposes to add an eighth site in Ordnance Road, Enfield Lock, to the plans.

The council, faced with more than 2,000 households in temporary accommodation, wants to build at least 100 family homes for rent on the different locations to respond to the huge demand for affordable rented properties.

Ahmet Oyken, cabinet member for housing, said the new homes would be under full council ownership, a model which would benefit the authority and Enfield taxpayers.

He told the Advertiser: "We really need more affordable and rented properties because lots of people are not in a position to buy a home and we have thousands of families in temporary accommodation. The scheme will benefit the council as well because we will own the homes and we'll raise income to build more in the future. It will give us flexibility to look for more sites for development."

The council expects the scheme's first three homes of the scheme, which is being financed largely through borrowing and will be delivered through a council-owned company known as New Foundations, to be completed in St George's Road, Enfield, in late spring next year.

All eight sites had been used previously for sheltered housing for the elderly, but the buildings were no longer in use.

Of the new homes, 60 per cent will be rented out at the normal market rate while the remainder will be rented out at affordable rates, set at 80 per cent of market rate and below.

Mr Oyken added that he was looking into letting out the properties on tenancies which are exempt from Right To Buy – the scheme under which tenants can buy their home for a considerable discount – "until the housing crisis is over".

The council expects all of the homes to be completed by spring 2016.

Meeting bids to allay residents' fears over horror attack

Victim: Palmira Silva died after being attacked in the garden of her home in Nightingale Road, Edmonton, two weeks ago

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS shaken by the deadly attack on an 82-year-old great-grandmother in broad daylight gathered in Edmonton last week.

Palmira Silva died on Thursday, September 4, after being attacked in the garden of her Nightingale Road home.

Armed police went to the scene to reports of a man with a long curved knife rampaging through gardens attacking animals. Nicholas Salvador, 25, was arrested at the scene and has been charged with murder.

In the wake of the horrific attack, council chiefs joined forces with officers from Enfield Police to organise a public meeting, which was attended by more than 50 people at Eldon Junior School, in Eldon Road, Edmonton, on Thursday.

Enfield Council's cabinet member for community safety and environment, Chris Bond, said the meeting had been held to help "residents feel safer as well as be safer".

He said that police had confirmed that the attack in Nightingale Road was not related to gang crime, terrorism or extremism.

"It was an extremely rare and tragic event," said Mr Bond. "While it is understandable that people are concerned, it is important to remember that crime in the borough is dropping over the longer term and the council and police are working hard to keep people safe.

"We have offered individual support and reassurance to those who were immediately affected by the events in Nightingale Road and will continue to do this as necessary."

Chief Inspector Ian Kibblewhite, from Enfield Police, said the meeting had been devised specifically as a way to make people affected by Mrs Silva's horrific death safer.

"I hope this has helped to resolve their concerns and allow residents to work towards a return to normality," he said.

Doug
Taylor

Enfield Council leader

I THINK it really matters to the people of England what the vote in Scotland will be on the referendum.

I believe that we are stronger together and the council has flown the Saltire next to the Union flag to symbolise that.

However, we don't have a vote on the matter and the people of Scotland will decide.

The consequences are profound, whatever the vote.

I don't think anyone can entirely and precisely predict the political, economic and social consequences for the UK of a "yes" vote.

But our standing in the world, our heritage and our economic integrity will be diminished.

But I do not believe that Scotland will necessarily flourish as some suggest.

Nevertheless, devolution is now fully on the agenda for England.

After Thursday, I want to see a greater willingness by central government to transfer powers closer to people – and that means a greater role for local councils.

That debate has already started, but any new roles must be accompanied by the transfer of resources to make any new responsibilities real.

We already face the need to make £60 million cuts in Enfield because of government austerity.

New powers must be accompanied by new resources.

We face very difficult decisions because of government cuts to our budget, but looking to better deliver services in the future does require greater devolution to English local authorities for both decisions and delivery.

Shambles that marred show opening

I HAVE just returned from the Saturday opening of the Enfield Town Show. What a shambles!

At 11am, a crowd of people had assembled at the gate. At 11.15am, a security guard told us to form an orderly queue.

We waited and waited and waited – the queue grew longer and longer.

Staff at the entry kiosk just stood there and no one seemed to be in charge. There was no explanation or apology for the delay.

We were finally allowed in, very slowly, at 11.25am.

Several people had already walked away, some with unprintable comments.

Apparently, some of the stallholders were late in setting up and Enfield

Council could not sign them "off the list" before letting the public into the park.

I hope that the organisers of this show will be more professional next year, or visitor numbers will surely drop.

Town centres vision seems baffling to me

IN March this year, the neighbourhood regeneration team at Enfield Council published Enfield's Town Centres: Places for Everyone.

This report was based on careful consideration of what is needed in the various town centres throughout Enfield to help sustain them and support economic development. Four councillors signed this document, Chris Bond was one of them.

Enfield's analysis of the strengths and weaknesses of each area was comprehensive and incisive.

For Enfield Town, the council noted that one weakness is the fact that cars use the town as a "cut-through to A10/M25 but not stopping", in other words, not stopping off to shop.

For Palmers Green, the council identified as one of the three top priorities the need to "encourage limited free parking".

Mr Bond is now leading on the Mini-Holland proposals. These will see all traffic diverted away from Church Street – in other words, drivers won't even see the shops, let alone stop to browse. In Palmers Green, parking is set to be decimated, rather than encouraged.

Did Mr Bond read the document he put his name to?

If he did, can he explain why he is now driving through the Mini-Holland proposals that are the very opposite of what the council itself identified as being needed to support our town centres?

Did no councillors notice the discrepancy between what the council had identified as being needed to support economic development and what the cycling lobby in traffic and transport services was proposing as part of Mini-Holland?

It's of interest that the report of the consultation that followed on from publication of Enfield's Town Centres: Places for Everyone has been delayed and delayed and is still not published.

It's difficult to avoid the conclusion that this is because it would be too embarrassing to show the level of public support for the far more credible and sensible proposals presented in that document than for those currently being railroaded through under Mini-Holland.

My idea for solar power to blossom

PLANS for a 25-hectare solar park had been submitted for a corner of green belt land near the M25 and the A10. The application was subsequently withdrawn.

I was wondering, in the case of the same plans being resubmitted in the future, whether anyone else had also thought of creating a wildflower meadow underneath solar panels?

This would create an area of far greater biodiversity than a grass field, which is what large areas of the green belt are. Many wildflower species are capable of supporting a large variety of invertebrate life. Many species of wildflowers are also becoming rarer as the nitrogen content of soils is increasing, due to the use of artificial fertilisers and air pollution from traffic.

A certain amount of the topsoil would, in any case, need to be removed, however, as poor soil is what most species of wildflowers require, and this may increase costs.

However, this could be the solution to conflicting interests as far as usage of the green belt is concerned.

Quiet please – and listen to residents

WOULD you believe it? At a meeting last week of the Fox Lane and District Residents' Association, which straddles three wards, at least seven local councillors turned up rather than the usual one or two?

Excellent, you might think, and perhaps it was, but for some of them it might just have been because the agenda included a presentation about the council's new Quieter Neighbourhoods policy, arising from the Mini-Holland bid. Certainly, that was when some became animated and involved.

A Quieter Neighbourhood is a residential area bounded by through roads (37 have been identified) where the council has it in mind – subject to consultation – to reduce/prevent rat-running, control traffic speed to 20mph and improve air quality and quality of life.

Something you'd think every councillor would at least want to consult their constituents about, but apparently not because Conservatives at the meeting announced their opposition despite the fact the Mini-Holland bid had bipartisan political support. For a time they dominated the discussion so overall we heard little from residents.

The reasons for making the Mini-Holland bid are manifold and strong. A case can be made on the deaths/illness from poor air quality and obesity alone (lack of exercise is one driver of becoming overweight) and both of these are affected by the Quieter Neighbourhoods policy. Residents' voices must be heard. To her credit, one Labour councillor said so.

Dog mess is infuriating

DOG mess – I see a lot of this on pavements after owners have walked their beloved pets and not cleaned up. If I knew who it was, after treading on it, I'd take it straight round to their garden and dump it there, or in the letter box.

'People power to improve railway'

New firm in charge after commuters complain

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN MP who has campaigned for commuters to get a better deal from train companies has said that "people power" will ensure a better service for all.

Govia took over the running of the First Capital Connect service on the Hertford loop line after the government awarded the company the tender following a litany of complaints from MPs.

Enfield North MP Nick de Bois raised the issue in the House of Commons with a debate about a series of delays and last-minute cancellations that blighted journeys made by his constituents last winter.

"Govia have been given a 20-year franchise because of the commitments they have made to improve lighting at platforms, and carriages that have not been replaced for 40 years will be updated."

Speaking to the Advertiser this week, the MP said: "It will take time, it is not going to happen overnight, but we will hold them to account for the promises they have made."

"With support from commuters who expressed their opinions on the First Capital Connect franchise, we were able to get a positive change on the railways."

First Capital Connect released a statement thanking passengers.

A spokesman said: "We want to thank you, our passengers, for your custom during the Service under new control: Enfield Chase is on the Hertford loop route past eight years. We've worked hard to improve your journey, but that's meant a lot of change with engineering work and altered stations.

"We've also added extra services and longer trains on the Great Northern route out of London King's Cross and Moorgate."

"It's meant a lot of change with engineering work and altered stations. Thank you for your patience – we hope you've noticed the difference."

Water firm is fined £82,065 for botched road repairs

By Ivana Scatola

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A WATER company has been ordered to pay more than £82,000 in fines and costs for below-par repairs to the borough's roads.

Thames Water admitted 15 breaches of the law regarding new roads and street works at Tottenham Magistrates' Court on September 4.

The company was fined £3,500 and ordered to pay costs of £1,963 for each offence. It was also told to pay a £120 victim surcharge, making a total of £82,065.

Council chiefs decided to prosecute the utility giant after tests carried out between September 2013 and January this year found that 15 roads in the borough, which had been worked on by Thames Water, had been repaired inadequately.

Independent tests commissioned by the council found the company had failed to replace the correct material to the correct thickness in roads that had been dug up. Roads tested by the council included Alma Road, Anderson Close, Crest Drive, East Duck Lees Lane, Eversley Park Road, Fox Lane, Hertford Road, Lincoln Road, Middleham Road, Rosewood Drive, Sandhurst Road, Silver Street, Southbury Road, The Chine, Winchmore Hill Road and Bounces Lane.

Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment and community safety Chris Bond said: "We expect very high standards from utility companies when it comes to reinstating our roads. We would prefer to work with them to ensure high standards of work and in the majority of cases there are absolutely no problems with the work carried out."

"When that is not the case, we will not hesitate to take firm and decisive action to address poor performance including legal proceedings, if necessary."

MP leads online forum to boost older jobseekers

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

OLDER unemployed residents in the borough are being targeted by an Enfield MP in a bid to boost their employment prospects.

Nick de Bois, the Conservative MP for Enfield North, has launched an online networking forum which he hopes will connect older jobseekers with employers.

"One of the things I was noticing in the job fairs I was running was that older people would often say to me with all the focus on young unemployed people they were feeling overlooked with the feeling being that some employers were choosing the cheaper, younger option over them," Mr de Bois told the Advertiser.

The MP, working with his colleague David Burrowes, the Conservative MP for Enfield Southgate, has now set up a web forum where older jobseekers can share their experiences, network with those in the same position as themselves and use the site to hunt for jobs.

The MP added that there will be content on the site supplied by companies in the borough, sympathetic to the forum's objectives.

"The website – www.ea50s.com – is now live and over the course of the next few days we will be updating the site with blogs, tips and more from local companies such as Kelvin Hughes, Johnson Matthey, Orchard Recruitment specialists and Enterprise Enfield."

Just the job: Enfield North MP Nick de Bois

Anyone interested in connecting with other jobseekers is encouraged to log on to the site and businesses keen to get involved in promoting themselves to older jobseekers can contact Mr de Bois by emailing nick.debois.mp@parliament.uk

On song: Colin Parish, with nephew Dan

Son's song remembers 'superdad'

A MAN whose father battled dementia in the last years of his life is hoping a tribute song he penned will raise money for further research into the disease.

Colin Parish, 55, has joined forces with his nephew, Dan Parish, 33, of Melbourne Avenue, Palmers Green, to promote the song he wrote describing how he remembered his father Sidney as a "superman" before he was struck down with the disease.

Journalist Colin, of Sydney Road, Barnet, wrote the song 10 years ago while his father was struggling with the disease.

Though unable to perform it for years as it was too emotional, he has uploaded a video of himself performing the song on YouTube and when his nephew saw it he immediately said it was "a perfect pop song".

"I was hooked immediately," said Dan.

"Everybody knows someone affected by the disease and I could imagine people connecting with this song if only we could transform this one bloke and his ukulele into a radio-friendly tune."

Dan, who works for London Underground, wanted his uncle to sing on the track and between the two of them they decided that they would market the song on iTunes, and for every purchase of the track 25p would go to the Alzheimer's Society.

Colin added: "Songs go viral all the time – with animation company Creative Connection's video and the Alzheimer's Society's approval, why not the song I wrote for my dad? There are more than 800,000 people with dementia in the UK – imagine if we could sell a song for every one of them."

Best foot forward: Anthony Oliveri, Tim Cunningham and William Oliveri

Thames walkers in charity fundraiser

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

STOUT walking boots and a love of pounding the pavements are the new, unusual, must-haves for anyone who wants to work at an electrical wholesalers in the borough.

Tim Cunningham, 40, who works in customer sales at AW Electrical on the Great Cambridge Trading estate, in Ponders End, company directors William Oliveri, 35, and his brother Anthony Oliveri, 31, and four of their regular customers trekked 100 kilometres along the length of the River Thames on Saturday.

Setting out at 9.20am from Putney Bridge in west London, the team finished just under 24 hours later on Sunday morning at Henley-on-Thames in Oxfordshire after walking through the night.

They all raised money for separate charities close to their hearts and totalled £7,000 for the good causes.

William chose Nightingale Cancer Support Centre, in Lancaster Road, Enfield. So far he has raised £780 and is aiming for £1,000.

Talking to the Advertiser about why the group decided to take on the challenge, Tim said: "About three months ago we all walked up

Mount Snowdon as part of a charity fundraiser and we all felt that we could do more for charity – that we could go further.

"We then found out about this Thames path walk and thought that sounded like a good challenge."

However, Tim, of Church Street, Edmonton, admitted that some of the team "did a bit more training than others" although he refused to name names.

He explained that one of the training walks the team had undergone took them from King's Cross in central London along the Hertford canal to Stratford and then up to Stanstead Abbots in Hertfordshire.

"That walk took us eight hours to complete and I don't even think we had much of a drink once we got up there," he added.

And despite the blisters and exhaustion that came with walking all day and all night along the banks of the Thames, Tim revealed that the team were determined to take on another, even more gruelling challenge, all in a bid to raise even more money for their chosen charities.

"We are definitely going to do something big next time," he said. "We aren't sure yet if it will be by bike or by foot, but we can say it will be a big one."

Garden centre treat for homebound

MEMBERS of the Southgate Homebound and Disabled Association were given the chance to do "something a bit different" when they visited a 1,000sq ft garden centre on Saturday.

During their visit to the Van Hage Centre, in Great Amwell, Hertfordshire, association members enjoyed afternoon tea and viewed the many flowers on show before meeting hundreds of animals living in the centre's zoo.

The association, which is now in its 56th year, organises a variety of free trips and activities for Southgate residents who find themselves housebound either because of age or disability.

Regular events include music and singing groups and talks, while the association has also organised cruises along the River Lee and tours of the Gunpowder Mills in Waltham Abbey.

Chairman Ian Woodall said the association was always on the lookout for volunteers to help run the trips.

"We organise these outings to give our members the opportunity to do something a bit different to our normal evenings," he said.

"We try to change where we go each year, but our choice of destination is restricted as it needs to be wheelchair accessible. Also, some years we've had to limit the number of members able to come due to not having enough volunteers to push them, although this year we were lucky."

"We want to grow the association to include as many people as possible, so we are always looking for more help, even if just for a few hours one evening every month".

The monthly meetings are held at Christ Church, The Green, Southgate.

Membership is free and is open to anyone from the Southgate area who is homebound due to age or disability.

To sign up as a member or volunteer, contact vice-president Des Woodall on 020 8886 9845.

School places for autistic children get the go-ahead

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

CHILDREN with special educational needs will now have a new school after plans for more places were given the go-ahead last week.

At a meeting of the council's overview and scrutiny panel in the civic centre, in Silver Street, Enfield, last Thursday, proposals to provide places for 70 children at a site in Southgate were rubber-stamped.

Council bosses signed off plans to take out a two-year lease on the old Minchenden School, in High Street, Southgate, which they hope will cater specifically for children with autism who need special help in education.

The motion to take a lease on the school was agreed unanimously after the decision was called in to the scrutiny committee by Conservative councillors.

The council's cabinet member for education Ayfer Orhan said that the Minchenden site was "the best" in the borough for children with autism. "This site will ensure the children will get the support and education they need to achieve their potential," she said.

"We are committed to providing enough school places for all our schoolchildren in high-quality buildings which meet their needs and the lease of Minchenden School will mean we can shortly accommodate up to 70 children with autism on the site.

"I'm really excited about this plan, it is something we have put in place for the right reasons.

"It is an opportunity to meet the needs of some of our most marginalised and vulnerable young people in a fantastic educational setting."

According to a council spokeswoman, the need for places for children with special educational needs in the borough has increased significantly since 2010 from 484 to 602.

She added that the cost of educating a single young person with autism outside the borough is estimated to be in the region of £70-80,000 per year.

Enfield Council estimates that he lease signed for the Minchenden site will save the borough money which can be invested back into other services for vulnerable children and young people.

Celebration: Cardinal Vincent Nichols blesses the mural at St Ignatius College

A SCHOOL celebrated its 120th anniversary with a special visit from one of the most senior figures from the Catholic Church in England.

St Ignatius College, in Turkey Street, Enfield, celebrated 120 years of Jesuit education with a blessing from the Archbishop of Westminster, Cardinal Vincent Nichols.

The school's deputy headteacher Kathleen Sorrell said: "Jesuit education is about creating men and women of conscience, competence and compassion."

Jesuit priests are an order in the Roman Catholic Church who focus on evangelism and education.

Assistant headteacher Catherine Goodwin told the Advertiser: "St Ignatius College has a very distinctive ethos as a Jesuit school based on our motto – ad maiorem Dei gloriam, which means for the greater glory of God." The school marked the occasion on Wednesday last week with a special mass. This was followed by Cardinal Nichols' blessing of a mosaic mural that has been designed by students and staff and was created at Art Start in Edmonton.

The mosaic features Ignatius of Loyola, a 16th-century Spanish priest, who was beatified in 1609. It is situated in the school's foyer.

Guests included members of the wider Jesuit community as well as former pupils, staff, clergy and pupils from other Catholic schools including St George's Primary in Gordon Road, Enfield.

Blessing the mural, the Archbishop said: "We hope this mural inspires the people who come into this school and all who see it. We thank all those who created it for their skill and dedication."

Show is the talk of the town

Photographs:
ANNE-MARIE

ENFIELD Town Park was packed with visitors over the weekend as the annual Town Show returned to its horticultural roots.

As silence reigned in the cloistered judging tent, where experts pored over the borough's finest examples of fruit, veg and flowers, belly dancers entertained crowds while the sound of shrieks from fairground rides filled the air.

The crowds were also entertained by open air cinema screenings and a late-night ceilidh during which party animals let down their hair to the sound of fiddles and accordions.

With plenty of stalls, including those for crafty kids, beekeeping and all things green at Forty Hall, people had a chance to get back to nature.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Farewell to a champion of the visually impaired

Tributes paid to former councillor who had an interest in social care

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have been paid to Pam Adams, former councillor and champion for the borough's blind and partially sighted, who has died at the age of 85.

Ms Adams, a Conservative, served on Enfield Council for 20 years, during which time she dedicated herself to improving social services, care for the elderly and services for visually impaired people.

She was first elected in the Southgate Green ward in 1990 and later was elected in Turkey Street, a seat she held until four years ago.

Ms Adams was also deputy mayor and was made a Freeman of the London Borough of Enfield in 2007.

A public relations officer by profession, she served on various committees and took great pride in chairing the council's social services scrutiny panel.

Conservative group leader Terry Neville described Ms Adams as "utterly selfless". He said: "She was among that rare breed of councillor who dedicated years of her life to helping."

"She was not interested in power as such. Power for her was the ability to get in among those disadvantaged people she cared about. She gave so much and made real sacrifices in her life to do so.

"She will be sorely missed by all who knew her and by the voluntary movement."

Ms Adams also served as president of Enfield Vision, the borough's charity for visually impaired people, and was a long-serving trustee of the Ruth Winston Centre for older people in Palmers Green.

Diane de Jersey, chairwoman of Enfield Vision, said: "Councillor Adams did an awful lot for blind people in Enfield. She supported us and often arranged for us to meet MPs and council officers."

Ms Adams attended private school in Southgate and lived in the borough all her life. Later in life, she worked for a Harley Street surgeon in central London.

Former leader of the council's Conservative group Michael Lavender said: "Her political contributions were not infrequently interspersed with the most biting wit. She will be sadly missed."

Her funeral will take place tomorrow at Enfield Crematorium, Great Cambridge Road, at 2.45pm.

It will be followed by a reception at the Ruth Winston Centre, in Green Lanes, Palmers Green. Anyone interested in paying tribute is welcome to attend.

Investing in your future

With a £10.5 million investment in our Ware Campus, new partnerships with leading companies and amazing student successes, there really is no better time to see what Hertford Regional College (HRC) has to offer you.

The redevelopment at our Ware Campus to provide a brand new Creative Arts Centre is now well underway and is due to open in Autumn 2015.

The new development will be home to the departments of Creative Arts and Industries and Business and Computing. This will enable joint delivery of courses in Games Development, Web Development and Animation. Courses will be delivered in the most advanced and state-of-the-art facilities, including studios, workshops and galleries, that meet current and future industry needs.

Watch this space for new and exciting courses for 2015!

Professional Facilities & Industry Experts

Classrooms are great for theory-based courses. For vocational courses, such as BTECs, rather than studying these in a school classroom, students may benefit more through: working in HRC's professional-standard facilities that mirror workplaces, strong links with local and national employers and lecturers with a wealth of both teaching and industry experience.

Earlier this month Kelvin Hughes, a world leader in the design and supply of navigation and surveillance systems, announced the launch of its new Apprenticeship Academy which is being delivered in partnership with Hertford Regional College.

The Principal of Hertford Regional College, Andy Forbes commented: "This is a perfect example of the way we are now working directly in partnership with leading companies - such as Johnson Matthey, Kelvin Hughes and Glaxosmithkline - to help develop their future workforce."

Great Achievements

Chris Ford, BA (Hons) Marketing at the University of Hertfordshire: First Class Honours.

"When I started at HRC, the thought of getting a distinction was just a dream, let alone going on to achieve a first-class honours degree. It may sound clichéd, but my time at HRC ensured I could turn this dream into reality. The support I was given was imperative in helping me succeed at university. The tasks involved seemed daunting at first, but the high standards set by the tutors at HRC prepared me for what is expected at university level and ensured that I excelled."

Work Experience counts for a lot

Paul*, a Business student at the HRC Ware Campus tells his story: "When I didn't make the AS grades I needed at school, I was told they 'presumed' I would be leaving sixth form. I then came to HRC and my work experience placement (in the Marketing department of a building company) helped me to get a place studying Business Management at Surrey University."

College vs Sixth Form

Life at HRC gives students the chance to make lots of new friends and encourages them to learn independently; to ease young people into the world of work or university. Group and one-to-one tutorials ensure that students still get the individual support they need.

Consider all options

For many young people, staying on at sixth form and doing A Levels is the best thing for them and we wish them success. However, sixth form is not for everyone and it is important that all students are given accurate information and support in finding what is right for them.

At Hertford Regional College we have courses for all levels from Level 1 BTECs right up to Foundation Degrees. An Extended Diploma is worth three A Levels and is a good option for those that are interested in going onto University.

83% of our HRC students that applied to Higher Education secured a place. This is far higher than the national average of 11%.

Know your options.

www.hrc.ac.uk

Facts you need to know

- A Levels are not the only route to university; an Extended Diploma is equivalent to three A Levels. There are also other more cost effective routes to university, such as Foundation Degrees.
- Doing A Levels then going to university is not the only way to start a really successful career; with fierce competition in the job market, candidates can no longer rely on good grades alone. Recruitment selection is very often also based on work experience and employability skills.
- If you are under 18 and haven't got at least a C in Maths or English GCSE, you will need to continue to study these subjects. This could be at school, an academy, college or employment with training.

Having second thoughts?

Do you have a teenager who is still unsure about their decisions since finishing their GCSEs or AS Levels?

Or are you a teenager who felt staying at school was your only option?

St Andrew the Apostle School's foundation for future success

With Autumn Term well underway, students and staff at St Andrew the Apostle School are busy building on the academic and personal achievements accomplished during their first year.

"It has been an amazing journey and as well as becoming a very close-knit school community, we are already proud of our academic, musical and sporting standards which we know have given us a solid foundation for our second and future years – right through to GCSE and A Level," says Headteacher, Mr Robert Ahearn.

When he welcomed everyone back to school in North London Business Park, Mr Ahearn told them: "Today marks a fresh start and a new adventure for everyone involved with St Andrew the Apostle School. There are new lessons, new teachers, new experiences and I would encourage all of you to do your best and set yourself challenging targets."

He also advised them to accept support from friends and help from adults. "Don't worry if you don't always get it right. Be determined and keep on going. Most of all, enjoy being a part of St Andrew's."

The latest Year 7 intake are settling in with the help of Year 8 students who have received special coaching to be "Buddies". The aim is to provide existing students with the opportunity to pass on the school's values and take responsibility for others.

The Buddies are able to answer questions about the school and what is expected of students – and can also be someone the younger students can initially talk to if they have any questions. Form tutors are on hand to support the Buddies and ensure everyone feels very much part of the school community.

St Andrew the Apostle School, in North London Business Park, is the UK's first state-funded Greek Orthodox secondary school and offers a traditional curriculum with a strong emphasis on English, Mathematics and Science as well as the opportunity to study Latin, Greek and Classics to GCSE-Level and beyond.

Based on the Christian faith and moral principles of the Greek Orthodox Church, it welcomes all families from any background looking for genuine academic excellence and cultural and moral development in a happy and secure environment.

St Andrew's actively encourages students to contribute to the wider local community and understand some of the issues that they'll come across at some point in their lives.

As well as visits from politicians, leading professionals and other guests, pupils have taken part in musical and dramatic performances, enjoyed visits to museums, observed local democracy in action at a full council meeting, experienced working in TV news studios and challenged themselves during a watersports trip to Newquay.

In addition, students undertake a variety of fundraising activities in support of Noah's Ark Children's Hospice, Thalassaemia UK and One Cause.

Due to the popularity of last year's event, St Andrew's is holding two Open Evenings on October 2 and 6 and a series of Morning Tours to allow prospective Year 7 parents and students the opportunity to see the school, meet students and staff and hear from Mr Ahearn about the school's progress.

"I believe that St Andrew's is really special – and our students and parents agree. I would encourage anyone to come along to one of our Open Events and experience our ethos and atmosphere for themselves," said Mr Ahearn, adding that the school is backed by the Classical Education Trust and the Greek Orthodox Church in partnership with the Russell Education Trust which has opened other schools now judged as "outstanding" by Ofsted.

Parents and students who are interested in joining St Andrew the Apostle School in 2015 can find details of the October Prospective Parent events on the website.

Decisions St Martha's School

Having been Headmaster of St Martha's for a year now I have had the opportunity to visit and speak with other Heads of many different types of schools. Parents are certainly fortunate to have such a choice of diverse schools in our area that it is a genuinely difficult choice when it comes to secondary education.

I have come to realise that there is never a quiet time in the life of the school. Over the summer, in addition to running our own summer school for international students, we refurbished our library, completely transformed our Science facilities and also given our Sixth Form Centre a new look. This has largely been needed as we have our largest ever Sixth Form this year being made up of our own students from Year 11 but also pulling from other local schools, in fact, we are still adding to this number as I write this.

What has been particularly pleasing for me to witness at St Martha's is the ease with which these girls, from different schools have quickly become part of our community. Although most schools biggest intakes take place in Years 7, 9 and Lower 6th it has been wonderful to be able to offer places to girls in other years as well.

Throughout last year and this term we have had many girls join St Martha's in various year groups. Although they are all individuals in different situations what prompted the move was a desire for their daughter to be happy. I personally believe that too much emphasis is placed on league table position and the destination of leavers resulting in the incorrect selection of secondary school. I also believe that we are in danger of losing sight of what a genuine education should be for a student. Yes examinations are important, yes if you are able to study at university you should and ensure you get to the best but we must not lose sight of the individual student. What is right for them? What represents success for them? As Headmaster of a school that does well with examination results, and sends most of its students to Russell Group Universities, you might say that it is easy for me to say this? But the reason we get the results we do is because of the individual attention that is given to each and every student. We are not a hot house or exam factory. Yes it is important that our students secure the best possible academic results and have access to the real world beyond the school. Yes we must ensure they are independent learners and will be able to cope in the different environment of university and employment but as a parent reminded me recently, we have to get them there first!

Perhaps, having read this, you might like to consider St Martha's for your daughter? To see if St Martha's might be where your daughter belongs why not visit our website and view our recently produced video or better still come to our Whole School Open morning on Saturday 27th September or our Sixth Form Open Evening on Thursday 16th October.

Night of cocktails and the wit of Noel Coward

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A NIGHT of cocktails, jazz and razor-sharp wit will absorb theatre-goers next week as a venue pulls out all the stops to create the ultimate "Noel Coward experience".

Before watching a production of Noel Coward's Present Laughter at the Dugdale Centre, the audience will be treated to the sultry tones of Elizabeth Andrews, who will be singing songs penned by Coward in the style of a 1930s' songstress.

And to help them get into the mood of the decadent inter-war years, they can sip cocktails in the foyer of the Dugdale Centre as they wait for curtain up.

"It would be fabulous if people did want to go one step further and dress up in the fashions of the 1930s," producer Greta Jenkins told the Advertiser. "But, of course, they don't have to."

"Noel Coward was such a prolific artist. He did such a lot of different things – he was a songwriter, author and an actor, and we thought it would be wonderful to showcase all these different parts of his life."

Stars of the show: Victoria Riley, Duncan Armitage and Virginia Byron

Present Laughter is based on the life of a struggling actor and is considered to be one of Coward's most autobiographical works.

"This play is fun and funny," the producer added. "It is sophisticated and very clever. People will love it."

She explained that both she and director Gail Ashwell wanted to create an experience that would help people immerse themselves in the spirit of the 1930s.

"We want people to have a little bit of fun, to have a little cocktail, listen to a little bit of music and get into the swing of things and have a wonderful time at the show," she said.

Present Laughter runs from Tuesday to Saturday, September 27. Tickets are £15, with concessions £15, and can be bought from www.dugdalecentre.co.uk or by calling 020 8807 6680.

Gran Coupe feels great

By Matt Joy

SOME of this BMW 4 Series Gran Coupe is brand-new, namely the exterior. It shares some elements with the regular coupe, but the key difference is the extra pair of doors. Frameless as in the coupe, they close up against a lower roof and as a result this car looks sufficiently different from the 3 Series saloon.

On the inside you get the familiar and still impressive cabin layout, although there's more emphasis on carrying two passengers in the back in comfort.

On the mechanical side, there's the same impressive choice of engines and gearboxes, plus a range of trims and option packs.

It might be similar on paper to a 3 Series saloon, but the 4 Series Gran Coupe has more in common with the 4 Series Coupe.

It shares that car's more pronounced nose, chunkier wheel arches and higher bonnet line, all of which give it a great deal of presence on the road.

Typically, the sportier models with their larger alloy wheels make the most of the shape, but even in SE guise it is a handsome machine.

Although the 4 Series is designed to appeal on an aesthetic level, it doesn't neglect its practical duties.

You sit fractionally lower in the front compared to a 3 Series and, although there's a lower roof line, headroom is still good. In the back there's plenty of space for two adults and you can fit a third in, if required.

The boot is also a good shape and size, with 480 litres available with the seats in place and 1,300 with them folded.

Behind the wheel, the Gran Coupe feels that bit more special than the 3 Series. The seating position and view out is a little more rakish thanks to the coupe proportions.

With the usual choice of excellent engines on offer, you can have the 4 Series Gran Coupe in any form you like, but the 420d is an impressive all-rounder.

There's 184bhp backed up by a strong 280lb.ft of torque, so the 420d gets along very smartly indeed. The 0-62mph takes just 7.5 seconds and a claimed 144mph is on offer.

Yet, driven with care rather than a lead right foot, 61.4mpg is possible – that's just 121g/km of CO₂ – and because this is a BMW you get sharp steering, great grip and classic rear-drive handling.

Although the 4 Series Gran Coupe inevitably costs more than the 3 Series saloon, it's the same price as the two-door 4 Series Coupe, so you get the extra doors and practicality thrown in. There's also a lot more standard kit than in the equivalent 3 Series, with leather, DAB radio and parking sensors thrown in.

There are still buyers queueing round the block to buy compact BMWs, so the addition of the Gran Coupe to the range means some people are going to be very happy.

Think of it as a more stylish alternative that, while not quite as practical as a 3 Series, is still more than good enough to carry people and luggage.

If this car was a family home, it would be a stylishly accommodating one.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968 and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - (i) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - (ii) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for settling the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors. Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes. Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

HIGHWAYS AGENCY

THE M25 MOTORWAY AND A10 TRUNK ROAD (M25 JUNCTION 25) TEMPORARY OVERNIGHT CLOSURES

Notice is hereby given that the Secretary of State for Transport intends to make an Order on the M25 Motorway, in Greater London and the County of Hertfordshire, under section 141(1)(a) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 because works are proposed to be executed on the road.

The effect of the Order would be to authorise the overnight phased closure of the roundabout at M25 Junction 25 (A10) including the M25 slip roads leading to the roundabout and the southbound and northbound carriageway of the A10 leading to the M25 Junction 25 roundabout.

These measures would be in the interest of road safety while contractors undertake resurfacing, road marking, studs installation, carriageway loops reinstatement, inspections to carriageways and structural assets and all associated works.

It is expected that the work would take place for approximately 7 weeks starting on or after Monday 20 October 2014 between 22:00 and 05:30 on Monday – Thursday nights, 23:00 and 06:00 on Friday nights, 22:00 and 06:00 on Saturday nights and 22:30 and 05:30 on Sunday nights.

The Order would come into force on 18 October 2014 and have a maximum duration of eighteen months.

During the closure outlined above, traffic affected would be diverted via the A10, A121, A1010, A1055, A414, A1(M) and the M25. The diversion route would vary depending on the closure in place.

The roundabout closure, carriageway closure, slips road closure and diversion route would be clearly indicated by traffic signs when they are in operation during the works periods.

D Walker, Network Delivery & Development, Highways Agency, Department for Transport, Ref: HA/SE/2014/M25/154

POCHETTINO: LET'S GO IN FOR THE KILL

By Neil Wyatt

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

MAURICIO POCHETTINO was left frustrated by his Spurs team on Saturday after they had dominated their match at Sunderland, but only returned from the north-east with a point.

A late own goal by Harry Kane rescued an unlikely draw for the home side in a Premier League match which Tottenham controlled from the outset.

The visitors took the lead when Nacer Chadli fired home a rebound after two minutes.

Sunderland winger Adam Johnson equalised moments later with a fine solo effort.

But, after Christian Eriksen had prodded Spurs ahead, again Kane unwittingly denied his team a deserved three points.

"We created a lot of chances and managed the game well, but we needed to kill the game off," Pochettino told the club's website.

"We had opportunities in the second half, but we conceded late for 2-2 and in football it happens like that. We switched off after we scored the first goal and conceded an equaliser. We need to analyse the game and improve, but it was a good performance and we're disappointed because we played well."

The game's statistics spoke for themselves with Spurs recording 15 shots compared with Sunderland's six. The visitors also enjoyed 63 per cent of the possession.

"The stats are all there for us today, but we've only got one point. It's a shame, but we need to look forward," said the boss.

Pochettino added: "I am very disappointed. When you create a lot of chances, it is difficult to accept the draw. We need to improve. We need to become more aggressive and more focused.

"It's difficult to accept. You need to have luck and it's true Sunderland had luck. I think there's a gap in the stats, but you need to kill the game. We did not do that and this happens in football.

"We need to show collectively more calm, more security. We need to win games like this."

The game marked Emmanuel Adebayor's 100th appearance for the club and he claimed an assist for Chadli's goal.

Of the appearance milestone, he said: "I'm happy to have reached 100 games, now I look forward to 101 and 102 and I'll try to score as many goals as I can and help the team as much as possible."

There was a warm reception from the home fans for Spurs defender Danny Rose at the Stadium of Light. He spent the 2012-13 season on loan with the Black Cats.

□ Tomorrow, Spurs are away Partizan Belgrade in the Europa League. It is their first game in Group C, which also contains Besiktas from Turkey and Greek side Asteras Tripoli.

□ An innovative mapping tool is helping fans, especially the disabled, to get around White Hart Lane on matchdays.

PhotoRoute uses virtual images to provide a step-free route to supporters from public and private transport locations to their desired stadium entrance. Once inside the ground, fans can navigate indoor routes to disabled seating areas.

The app is aimed at helping people across a range of disabilities.

Facts about Partizan in black and white

TOTTENHAM'S Europa League opponents tomorrow, Partizan Belgrade, have made a 100 per cent start in Serbia's Super Liga with five wins out of five.

On Saturday, they won 4-2 at home to Cukaricki.

Partizan were knocked out of Champions League qualification on away goals by FC Ludogorets of Bulgaria.

A 2-2 draw at home was followed by a goalless game in Bulgaria.

The team's head coach is Marko Nikolic. The team includes players such as Montenegro international Nikola Drincic.

They play in black and white stripes. These colours were adopted after a friendly with Juventus in 1957.

□ Tottenham return to Premier League action on Sunday when West Bromwich Albion are the visitors to White Hart Lane. The kick-off time is 1.30pm.

Crunch match is looming for Borough

HARINGEY BOROUGH had no game on Saturday – but are due to be back in action tonight when they travel to Ilford for a fixture in the Essex Senior League.

On Saturday, there will be a crunch match against another team near the top of the table, FC Romania, at Coles Park.

The following Tuesday, Basildon United are the visitors in another league match.

On Thursday, Borough played a friendly against Wingate and Finchley's Under-21s team and won 1-0 at Coles Park.

Borough have declared that the free attendance initiative against Newham on September 6 was a success as the crowd reached 100.

The offer was part of Non-League Day, an annual initiative to attract more people to watch lower division football. It was started several years ago by QPR fan James Doe and clubs all over the country make special offers on admission.

"I am delighted that so many students have obtained their target grades, particularly at a time when competition for both University, employment and training is so fierce. Congratulations to both students and staff".

Jonathan Gillard Principal

Aylward Academy is very pleased to announce another year of very good results in our growing Sixth Form.

Year 12 students saw a huge increase in A*-B grades, narrowing the gap on national attainment, as well as another significant rise in A*-E.

There was particular success at A*-B in Turkish, Film Studies, Drama, Philosophy and Ethics and Geography, with A*-B in excess of 40% for all of these subjects.

With a growing year 13 our outcomes at A2 (including BTEC) have been maintained with 45% A*-B, in line with 2013. Also an improvement in A*-E. These results achieved alongside a huge increase in entries (around 250% in the past two years).

There was particular success in Turkish, Maths and Sociology where A*-B attainment was 40%+. Also excellent performance in some BTEC subjects, most notably ICT, Health and Social Care, Dance and Art.

There were some huge individual success stories, most notably Sabrina Carvalho who achieved 4 A* grades in Maths, Biology, Chemistry and Physics and will now take up her place to study at Cambridge University – the first student in the history of the Academy and predecessor school to do so.

The Principal, Jonathan Gillard, praised the hard work of 6th form students and Aylward staff and said "I am delighted that so many students have obtained their target grades, particularly at a time when competition for both University, employment and training is so fierce. Congratulations to both students and staff".

Mick Lees, Chair of Aylward Academy Governors, also congratulated staff and students upon the results and stated that "these results recognise the excellent progress which 16-19 year old students are making at Aylward and the quality of teaching and learning in the Academy".

Celebrating GCSE Results

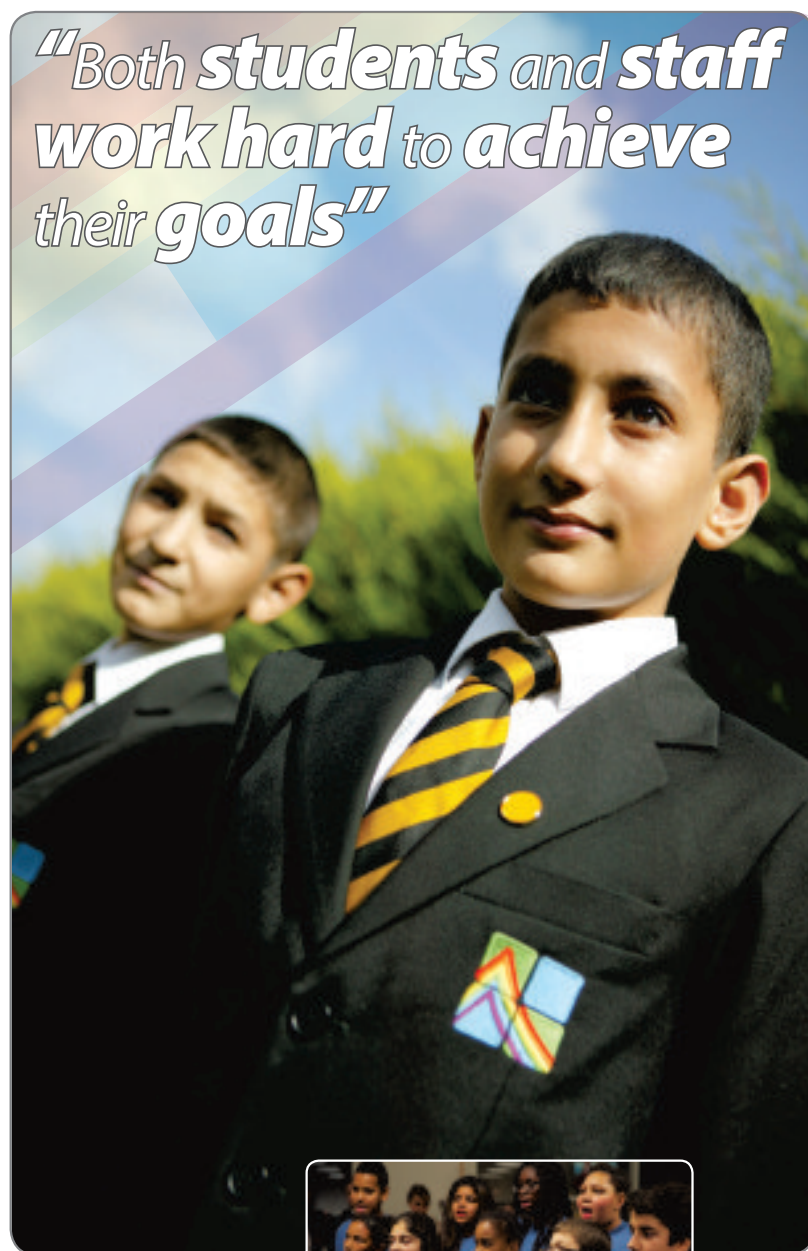

Aylward Academy, sponsored by the LAET (London Academies Enterprise Trust) is delighted to announce the success in this year's attainment in 'GCSE/BTEC' results. This follows on from the improved results in A Levels announced last week.

41% of students have obtained at least 5 A*-C grades at G.C.S.E. including English and Mathematics. Over 50% of students gained a C or above in English and over 50% of students gained a C or above in Maths. 12% of GCSE grades were either an A or A*, an increase of 50% in the last 2 years!

Currently, the Academy is coming to the end of a capital building programme of nearly 11 million pounds, which has equipped it with a brand new Sixth Form building.

The Principal, Jonathan Gillard, praised the hard work of all the year 11 students and said "The results are an indication of the hard work the students have put in to achieving their personal goals".

The Principal, Jonathan Gillard, was particularly pleased that the work carried out in the academy has reduced the numbers of young people likely to be NEET (Not continuing in Employment, Education or Training).

"Both students and staff work hard to achieve their goals"

Aylward Academy is delighted to invite year 6 Students and Parents to their YEAR 6 SECONDARY TRANSFER OPEN EVENING

A special evening has been arranged on
